Date: November 28th, 2023

Ted Lewis raised in New York City. His father inspired him to do the best he could in school, but his mother pushed him to college and furthering his education. His first job of responsibility was a crossing guard for his early education school, PS 151; he would have to assist the traffic supervisor in crossing his fellow students. After graduating from junior high school 73 he attended East New York Vocational and Technical High School where he was enrolled and completed the F.A.A certified aviation mechanics program.

While a student at East New York Vocational and Technical High School he became employees at Radio City Music Hall as an usher. After high school he became enrolled at New York City Community College and in the Mechanical Engineering program.

Raised with a military background from seven years old to twenty-one, he joined the United States Marine Corps; he made rank very fast to Corporal; he served in the security department and as a water survival instructor

Upon completing his three year comment he returned to his college work at the New England Ironical Institute where he studied area space engineering, but transferred to business and computers. After graduation in 1971 to become enrolled at North Eastern University in its criminal justice program and in 1974 graduated with his Bachelor's degree.

After graduation he became employed at Harvard University Campus Police and then became their fire arms instructor. But, as life moved on he would later become employed with the Metropolitan Police Department; they later became the Massachusetts State Police Department. Ted moved on to a local police department, Cambridge Police Department where he was promoted to detective. Ted felt there was more in life and there he could better serve the community as a counselor, dealing in stress management.

However, his counseling practice did not work out so he return to law enforcement and join the MIT police department; again, Ted was granted an opportunity to move up to a higher level of enforcement and joined the Boston police Department where he not only served as a police officer but, in the identification section where he performed crime scene photography and a certified finger print expert for the Boston Police Department, and at the same time served as the police commissioner's special events photographer under Police Commissioner Paul Evans. A total of over 36 years in law enforcement.

Upon retiring for the Boston Police Department Ted became involved in TV Production (Community TV level), and from 2007 to present he has aired or assist in the production of over 790 tv programs at Boston Neighbor Network. Ted Lewis now swerves as a Board Member of Brookline Community TV, Center for Community Wellness, and Roxbury Main Street. He recently graduated from the Emergent Leaders in Media Program, and OSHA ( a ten hour training program in construction and health safety). Ted Lewis is actively involved with his high school in Brooklyn New York, in counseling students for their future; president of his high school alumni (class of 1963).

A cancer survivor, he also works with veterans.

His future endeavor manager of a community TV station where he hopes to teach students tv production.

His mottos are:

In Order For Something To Start, Something Has To Stop...

Obstacles Are What You See When You Take Your Eyes Off The Goal...

Good Better Best, Never Let It Rest Till Your Good Is Better, and Your Better Is The Best...

The Bias Of Mother Nature Is Toward The Wilderness, If You Don't take Care Of It, Mother Nature Will...and,

If You Don't Like Something Don't Cry About it, Do Something...

Sincerely yours,
