

Jonathan Bekemeier is a commercial director/filmmaker. Bekemeier has worked with a variety of agencies and clients in his commercial making, including McDonald's, Arnold Worldwide, Blue Cross Blue Shield, LendingTree, Mullen and First Tennessee Bank among others. His filmmaking credits include directing 'Titler', a surreal satire that has played around the world, winning numerous awards including an honorable mention at the Sundance Film Festival. He also was the DP of 'Black and White and Red All Over,' another Sundance film. His most recent short, "Secret of the Lion" is about the discovery of a time capsule hidden inside the Lion statue at the Old State House in Boston, MA. Jonathan attended Emerson College and got his start directing music videos for groups like The Pixies and Buffalo Tom.